May 24, 2013 I have a "beissbarth ml 3000 pc" and it will not print after being plugged in for over a day and it will not let me print the test page. What can I do so that it will print and test page. The printer was used by my mother and it is still in good condition. I tried an old and used HP printer that I had. Please help! I read that people fixed the problem by setting the printer to "paper only" mode and then "normal mode". I can't find the menu and I don't know how to set the printer to "paper only" mode. If I can do that can I print the test page so I can check that it is printing ok? A: You can use the Test print page. As long as the power to the printer is connected, you should be able to access that option. You can click on the Main Menu button on the printer to access the settings. As long as you see the correct options, "paper only" should be available.
